WHISKERS ARE THE ISSUE IN DEBATE IN CONGRESS

Mann's Profuse Lilacs Are Subject of Derision by Baldheaded Kentuckian.

WASHINGTON, May 2—Whiskers figured conspicuously in an interchange of personalities between Representatives Thomas of Kentucky, Mann of Illinois and others in the House today, while the tariff bill was pending.

Thomas, criticizing remarks by some of the minority leaders, amid convulsive laughed, referred to Republican Leader Mann as "the whiskered gentleman from Illinois," Representative Fordney of Michigan, "the hairless wonder from Michigan." Representative Murdock of Kansas as "the gentleman from Kansas who sports the sunset locks around the House."

Thomas advised Mann to get shaved, and asserted that the minority leader consumed volumes of the Congressional Record with his "mixed metaphors and insipid nothingness and so has cost the Government possibly $10,000,000 since he has been rattling around on that side of the House."

Mann ended the incident by saying that Thomas has "hair on the brain, but none on the top of his head."

"The gentleman from Kentucky,"
Mann added, "says I am bewhiskered.
That is true, but at least I am not bewhisked."

SENATE CLERK BEGINS 50TH YEAR IN PLACE

Took Job 15 Years Before Luke Lea, Present "Baby of the Senate," Was Born.

WASHINGTON, May 2—Charles N.
Richards, 72 years old, superintendent of the Senate stationery, room, today starts on his fiftieth year of service.

Richards entered the service of the Senate in the days when Charles Sumner and Henry Wilson were Senators from Massachusetts, his native State.

He was appointed 15 years before Senator Luke Lea of Tennessee, the present young member of the Senate, who was born in 1887.

He sets forth in her petition that they were married Nov. 21, 1911, and separated Feb. 28, 1912.

"It is the third time that the Democrats have had a chance to lop off my official head," said Richards today,

"and they haven't done it yet. What's the reason? First, I am a stationery clerk; second, they want a sample of the old rascals, to show just what a bad lot we were; and, third, they seem to want me to stay, and I want to stay with them. They want me to have there.
There is not a Senator, member of the House or member of the Supreme Court who was in office when I began here."

MELLIN'S $102,000 TO G. O. P. IN 1904 PAID BACK BY ROAD

Sphere, After She Strikes It, Hits Street Car Rail, and Rebounds to Her.

An unusual accident occurred in account by players on the Country Club links caused the injury to Miss Scudder.

She teed off from a point near the Clayton line tracks. Her drive was low.

The ball had struck the street car rail and bounded back, hitting her in the eye.

It was at first thought that the injury might prove serious, but physicians Friday said there would be no permanent ill effects, though the eye is still swollen and discolored.

ANARCHY SCARE IN PEACE CONGRESS, BUT JUST A SCARE

Youth Grabbed and Taken From Box Because of Supposed Designs on Carnegie.

A nervous-looking youth, who wanted to see Andrew Carnegie, made some of the officials of the Fourth American Peace Congress a good deal more nervous than he was at Friday morning's session in the Odeon.

The nervous youth, who was not especially dressed, told Miller Hageman, publicity man of the congress, that he was near-sighted, and would like a seat from which he could get a good view of the ironmaster. Hageman showed him to a front box on the right side of the house, a few feet from where Carnegie sat. Then, noticing how nervous the youth was, and remembering how carefully men of great wealth are usually guarded, Hageman cranks, Hageman began to get nervous himself.

Watched Youth.

Hageman told Erastus Wells, son of former Mayor Wells, of his suspicions, and Wells accompanied him to the box and sat down behind the curious youth.

The stranger appeared still more nervous, and his hands moved several times toward his pocket. Hageman and Wells watched him, one at each elbow. After a few minutes the youth slipped his hand into his pocket. As he took it out something gleamed in the light.

Instantly the two watchers grasped him firmly, one by each shoulder, and whispered a command that he leave the box with them. Astonished, and more nervous than ever, the young man stepped into the hallway with his captors, and opened his hand. In it was

"his silver watch."

"I was just wondering if that speck was a watch going to get through," he explained. He did not return to sit on his seat, and left the building. Hageman and Wells decided that he was probably harmless, but they also agreed that they did right in watching him.

Carnegie, listening to the address, was unaware of the efforts made by Hageman and Wells to insure his safety. He talked to those who sat near him on the platform of his plans for the next few days, in connection with arrangements for the Anglo-American Peace centenary.

He will leave St. Louis at noon Saturday, and reaching New York early Sunday afternoon, will welcome the Tyrolean and Canadian delegates sent here to arrange for the celebration of 500 years of peace among English-speaking peoples. They will make a tour of the country, and he plans to accompany them as far as Washington. A. D. Humphrey, secretary in charge of the arrangements for the peace centenary, will accompany him on his departure from St. Louis.

When a bulletin stating that the United States had recognized the Chinese republic was read to the Congress, Carnegie jumped up, waved a program, shouted "Good," and led the delegates in applause.

Jordan to Speak.

He had a scheduled public appearance in St. Louis in the young people's meeting in the Third Baptist Church Friday night, for which he has been selected as presiding officer. The speakers announced are David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford University, and Prof. Jay William Hudson of the University of Missouri. The meeting will take place at the same time as the regular session of the Peace Congress in the Odeon.

Charles W. Fairbanks, former vice-president of the United States, will preside at the Odeon gathering. The speakers will be Shaler Mathews dean of the Chicago University Divinity School; P. P. Claxton, United States Commissioner of Education; John Wesley Hill, pres-

THE SECRET OF SUCCESS

Genuine Merit Required to Win the People's Confidence

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are forgotten? The reason is plain—the article is not the merit of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system, the remedy is recommended by those who have been cured, to those who are in need of it.

In an interview on the subject, a prominent local druggist says: "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows immediate results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy that I know of has so large a sale."

The success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root is due to the fact that it relieves the body in overcommodious conditions. It relieves the bladder disease, corrects uterine troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

A free trial bottle will be sent by mail, gratis. Address Dr. Kilmer, 1111 Broadway, N. Y., and mention this ad. Regular bottles sold at all druggists—$1.00.

B. T. WASHINGTON DEFENDS JAPS

At Thursday night's session of the Peace Congress in the Odeon, Acting Chancellor Hall of Washington University presided, and the speakers were former Vice-President Fairbanks, Miss Laura Drake Gill, Jenkins Lloyd Jones and Booker T. Washington.

A number of negroes were in the audience to hear Booker T. Washington, the leader of their race. In speaking of the advance in public sentiment, he remarked that the number of lynchings has been reduced to one-third or one-fourth what it was a dozen years ago.

He predicted that in future times the name of Carnegie, as a hero of peace, would be as much exalted as the name of Napoleon has been as a hero of war.

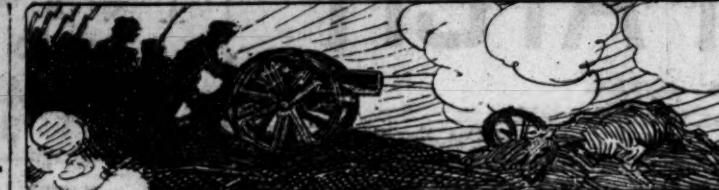

He said America, having taught Japan its methods of industry and civilization, was now placed in an awkward position.

"A few thousand of the Japanese come to our country and attempt to put into practice the very lessons of economy and industry which we have taught them," he said, "and in return for this we attempt to humiliate them and degrade them as a people. Such a course is unworthy of our civilization. I pity the white man in America who is afraid to stand up in open competition in the commercial world by the side of a few thousand Japanese."

SCENARIOS BY ROBERTUS LOVE.

A WANTON Hell of battle. Thunder-guns that vomit wrath and ruin. Shells ashore.

With avid fury and the lust to wreak destruction. Pick of men, the sturdiest ones, Grappling in death-heat. Modern Vandals, Huns, Surviving Attilas of loot, the weak Helpless before them. Tongues of Hate that speak Against the gradual process of the Suns. A million homes where little children sit Uncomprehending, whilst the mothers' eyes From page to page through ghastly records fit, As fear enchanters them into mad surmise Of scenes on crimsoned fields of strife and stench, Where Ghouls are feeding carrion to the trench.

A PARADISE of plenty. Shop and mine Manned with the bravest, dignifying life With whistling yeomen. Farm and forest life In civic sentiment. The tingling wine Of health in virile bodies, waging strife Against disease alone. The happy wife And children. Love the only countersign. The world at peace, the federated pact Progressing with the Stars, the upward urge. The universal family, to act In unison and out of mirth emerge To Dawn that burgeons with the beams that gild The morning of immortal dreams fulfilled.

dent of the International Peace Forum, and the Rev. Thomas E. Green of Chicago. The last named speaker, while not hitherto well known here, is said to possess surprising oratorical power.

It is possible that the Rev. Mr. Green will be transferred from Friday night's program to that of Saturday night, to take the place which had been assigned to William J. Bryan. If this is not done, one of the Latin-American delegates will be placed on Saturday night's program. Reports that William J. Bryan had left Sacramento, and might address a supplemental meeting of the congress here Sunday night, proved unfounded. Washington and Sacramento dispatches say Bryan will remain in California several days longer.

Dr. A. Siebert announced Friday morning that Andrew Carnegie had accepted an invitation to take part in the exercises of planting a tree in Tower Grove Park at 3:30 p. m. Friday, by the children of the Sherman School, 3945 Plaza Avenue. An invitation was sent by Dr. Siebert to Carnegie on behalf of the Mothers' Circle of the school, of which Mrs. A. Scheckel is president. He received a reply from Robert S. Brookings, Carnegie's host. There is to be a parade from the school to the park, and Principal A. R. Brown will deliver an address. Every child present will help in the planting by throwing a handful of earth around the roots of the tree.

Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie are scheduled to be in Shaw's Garden as the chief guests of honor in a reception to begin at 4 p. m., to which all the delegates have been invited. An automobile tour of St. Louis was arranged to precede the reception, the machines leaving Hotel Jefferson at 3 p. m.

At the morning session, in the Odeon, the topic was "Problems of the Hague Conference." James Brown Scott, secretary of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, presided.

Prof. William H. Hall of Swarthmore College, speaking on "The Hague Tribunal," said that the tribunal should be "the visible and audible conscience of the family of nations," as the United States Supreme Court is the conscience of this nation. He said the next step in the tribunal's development should be that its members should cease to represent particular nations and should act for the family of nations.

to accomplish anything at a directors' meeting is to have the meeting in a small room where there is no space for orators.

Advice to Marry.

In the apprentice room, where a class of girls is being trained for library work, Carnegie stopped long enough to meet the right sort of a man who had selected. He said that if he were a woman he would want to work in a library. Daily contact with books, he said, is certain to make one intelligent.

He then referred to the number of marriages that had robbed the library of assistants and said that if any of the girls now taking lessons chanced to meet the right sort of a man who was looking for a home to forget the library and furnish the home. After all, he said, the home is the foundation of society.

At the close of the inspection tour Carnegie said he was agreeably surprised and delighted with the growth of St. Louis. He has found it a charming city, he said, and added that in future years the city will have good reason to be proud of Washington University, the rapid growth of which he attributed to the efforts of his host, Robert Brookings.

As he was leaving the building he stopped to read an inscription on the wall in the delivery room. It is as follows:

"Speak low, tread softly through these halls. Here genius lies enthroned. Here reign in silence the monarchs of the mind."

When informed it had been written by Mrs. A. C. Botta, he uttered a joyful exclamation. She is an old friend of his, he said, and he was mighty glad to see some of her work in St. Louis. He used to attend a literary salon she conducted in New York, he said.

New Dresses for Misses and Children

The first thing he did after entering the building was to stop and speak to several girls who were at work in the main distribution room. He commented on their beauty and remarked that they seemed too good looking to be efficient. His genial smile reassured the recipients of the compliment when they looked at him dubiously.

In the delivery room Carnegie found what he considered too much waste space, but he added, to the comfort of the Reception Committee, that he presumed the space soon would be filled up with books.

The directors' room impressed the visitor as being entirely too large and when informed by Lee that was for the purpose of admitting the public to directors' meetings he smiled and said Lee was entitled to credit for such a clever excuse. He said the only way

QUESTION OF MAN'S HOME INVOLVES
$20,000 OF ESTATE

Widow of Aulson S. Bouchard,
Says He Lived in St. Louis,
Not in California.

SHE ASKS $75,000 DOWER

Under Laundryman's Will, If His Residence Was San Diego, She Would Get but $55,000.

The question as to whether the legal residence of Aulson S. Bouchard, a wealthy laundryman, was in St. Louis or in San Diego, Cal., must be settled before his widow, Mrs. Jennie Bouchard, will know the value of her share of his estate will be.

On the decision of Probate Judge
Holtcamp will depend the disposition of the widow's portion of the estate and how far it will be. His will was in San Diego and will receive about $30,000 less than she would receive if the estate were administered in Missouri.

In support of the contention that his residence was in California, two women witnesses testified that before moving from St. Louis, in 1911, he said he would never live here again. One of them said that he referred to St. Louis as a "hole," and said he would "never live in the d—d town again."

Was a Stenographer.

Mrs. Bouchard, before her marriage, was a stenographer in the office of Taylor Young, who for many years was Bouchard's attorney.

Under the will, Mrs. Bouchard is the residuary legatee of her husband's $16,000 estate. He bequeathed his $36,000 to other persons, all near relatives, and appointed the Commonwealth Trust Co. executor of the estate. The trust company has been handling the property under the Missouri law and recently, by order of Court, turned over $5,000 to the widow for her temporary support.

Her Interest $75,000.

Mrs. Bouchard, as residuary legatee, would not get as much as the dower law of this State allows, which is one-half as much as in this case, there were no children. She renounced her right under the will and chose to take her dower interest. This interest would be about $75,000 instead of $35,000, as under the will.

Other legatees are contesting Mrs.
Bouchard's claim to her dower right.
They desire that she be administered under the laws of California.
They want the court to permit a husband to dispose of his property as he sees fit without regard to the wife's dower, if the property was accumulated before his marriage.

Bouchard died on a train at Hutchinson,
Kan., Nov. 23, 1911, en route from St. Louis to San Diego, where he had built a $30,000 residence. Testimony before the Probate Judge Thursday revealed that his mission to this city was to supervise the burial of a son by his first marriage beside the grave of his first wife in Belfontaine Cemetery.

Miss Irene Hewitt, a stenographer of 419 Olive street, a niece of Bouchard and to whom was bequeathed $500 by him, testified that a year before her uncle died he told her that San Diego was his permanent home.

Miss Nellie King, 3908 Westminster place, also a stenographer, testified that Bouchard called at her home in 1910 and told her he was living permanently in California. She said he spoke about going to San Diego, adding that if he did he wanted her as a stenographer.

Bought Linens for Home.

According to Miss Laura Hoffman, 2115
Allen avenue, salesgirl in a department store, Bouchard told her he was going to California to live permanently. This was three years ago, when he purchased a $300 bill of lading for his San Diego home, the witness said.

Another witness, Mrs. Nellie Paul, a milliner, said that Bouchard called at her home in October, 1911, and after telling her he was going to San Diego, referred St. Louis as a "hole."

On this occasion Bouchard announced he had deposited $150,000 in bank the day before. "I said I was from Missouri," Mrs. Paul testified, "and would have to be shown. He pulled out a bank book and displayed the figures."

Taylor Young, who was Bouchard's attorney for years, testified that he saw his former client the day before he died.
"I met him while he was looking in a show window at Ninth and Pine streets," said Young, "and he remarked to me that he was going to San Diego for home. The next day I read in the papers about his death on the train."

Frank C. Eichler, salesman for J.
Kennard & Co., said he sold Bouchard $200 worth of household furnishings for the San Diego home and that the customer remarked he had bought the San Diego house for speculative purposes and would always claim St. Louis as home.

Registered From St. Louis.

Counsel for Mrs. Bouchard contend that San Diego was Bouchard's resort residence, maintained like other men of means, and that his legal domicile was St. Louis, where he died. His fortune, hotel registers showing that he registered as "hailing from this city" are among the records in the case. He was 73 years old. His widow, an attractive brunette, about 32 years old, was in court, dressed in black.

WIDOW ACCUSED BY DAUGHTER TELLS HER FIRST STORY OF CASE

before that time. His friends will vouch for my statement that he had a most active mind. He held a responsible position and transacted business to the last minute before his fatal illness. He died of heart disease.

"Just after he had drawn his will he told me he had arranged so that I should never have to be dependent on my children, but he did not mention the contents of the will and I was not until after his death that I learned that he had left everything to me and had taken the precaution of preventing a contest by leaving the children each $1.

"I worshipped my children and saw that they wanted for nothing. I spent thousands of dollars for their entertainment and comfort. I took them to Europe and when Marie married last October I spent $3000 on her trousseau; gave her a check for $2000, bought her an expensive chest of silver plate, a $500 La Valiere and gave my son-in-law a costly gift.

Daughter to Be Witness.

"Marie was educated in the Sacred Heart Convent at Maryville, Bud (Gardiner's pet name) was prepared for Princeton; and Helen, who is 14 years old, was attending a private school at Winnetka, Ill., until a few days ago. I have been informed that she has been brought to St. Louis and is going to be used as a witness against me.

"Mr. Miller was of a Bohemian nature and so was I. He kept cases of whisky and wine in the house all the time and I drank with him to sociability. Not a word was said about my habits regarding temperance until this was brought in court. I have not been drinking as much since my husband's death as I did before. I do not claim to be a teetotaler, but I can summon plenty of witnesses to prove that my drinking has been moderate in the last two years.

"This suit was not brought because my daughter feared I was drinking too much, as she alleges. I have learned just how the distressing muddle originated. My daughter in Boston and I were on the best of terms until recently.

"St. Louis friends only a few weeks ago wrote to my daughter and told her rumor had me engaged to Dr. Gardner. She was told that he was visiting at my home and that we were meeting to make a good deal. She was advised in her letters to come home.

"Marie was in St. Louis several days before I knew of her presence. She stopped with these friends who had written to her and consulted an attorney before she let me know she was in the city. She even made the charge that I was drinking excessively although she had not seen me since her arrival. The first I heard from her was when she telephoned me and wanted to know if I could come over and take dinner with me.

"I was greatly surprised to hear she was in town and after my anger had died I invited her to the house. The moment she entered the house she wept and asked me about Dr. Gardner. The thought that I was said to have been engaged to Dr. Gardner, a married man, was so ridiculous to me that I laughed. Then I became indignant and demanded to know where Marie had obtained such information. She then told me about the letters she had received.

"In regard to Dr. Gardner I wish to say he was one of the best friends my husband had. I have known him eight years. As a dentist, he treated me professionally. He has hidden in my auto. He is a good friend, but nothing more. The filing which I have done a few days after my daughter came in the city was merely a coincidence.

"Mrs. Gardner was jealous of me though she had no reason to be. Dr. Gardner told me this whenever he went home and told his wife I had been at his office and became angry.

"Mrs. Gardner called me up on the telephone several times before she filed her suit and wanted to know if her husband was at my house. Dr. Gardner was at my home the evening Marie came here with a deputy sheriff to serve notice of the suit. I want to tell how that happened.

"Marie brought along a nurse and said I must place myself under her care. I was tired out from packing all day for a contemplated trip to California and when I saw the nurse I almost collapsed. She took off her hat with great audacity and walked upstairs. I telephoned Dr. Gardner to come and help me protect my home from the nurse's invasion. Then the deputy handed me a paper. I understood it was a warrant for my arrest and took it up and threw it at his face.

"Dr. Gardner came over to the house and when I told him what Marie had done he advised me to be calm. I couldn't understand the circumstances. I ran upstairs and seized an unloaded revolver. Then I threw the nurse's hat downstairs and ordered her to follow it. I told her I would put a bullet in her brain if she remained another minute. She got. Then I pointed the revolver at Marie and told her to get. She ran down the front steps. Later she told her lawyer that Dr. Gardner had provided me with a loaded revolver with which to chase her from the house.

"I am not concerned in Dr. Gardner's divorce suit.

"I will resist the charge that I am mentally unsound even if the case has to go to the Supreme Court. I might have forgiven my daughter for other things, but I will never forget her for this. I believe I can convince the Court that I am mentally sound."

Dr. F. J. Reuer of the Humboldt Building, who had been treating Mrs. Miller since her stay in the sanitarium, says she is in perfect health.

Judge Clegg Friday dissolved the temporary injunction restraining Mrs. Connor's lawyers from taking depositions in the suit against her mother. Attorney John S. Leahy, representing Mrs. Connor, said the daughter will ask for an immediate hearing of her petition for a guardian. The case had been set by Judge Holcamp for June 20.

More persons consult the Post-Dispatch lost and found wants each day than read all ads of that kind in all the other St. Louis newspapers.

There Will Be Many a Lucky "Catch" With the Element of "Chance" Eliminated Tomorrow in The Boys' Clothing Store

Where May Sale Reductions Go Into Effect

THIS Boys' Store has carried the most complete assortments of stylish clothes in its career—it has done a greater business by far than ever—but there are many more Suits remaining than usual.

This is the reason for the unusual radical reductions.

Four Groups of Boys' Suits

$2.85 $3.90 $4.85 $6.75

Four remarkably fine groups of Suits in which the reductions have been radical, indeed. Of many of these Suits there is but a small quantity.

They come in double-breasted and Norfolk styles, and the materials are newest cheviots, clever mixtures and cassimeres—in dark colors, light colors, medium shades, and in the new gray and brown mixtures and checks.

Come in sizes from 6 to 18 years, and are divided into four price-groups as follows:

Boys' $3.50 and $4 Suits at $2.85

Boys' $5 and $6 Suits at $3.90

Boys' Washable Suits

Every color combination is represented, and nearly every desirable style; among them the new Eton Suits, Midy Sailors, Russians and Beach Suits; ranging in price from $1.45 to $5.95.

Children's $3 and $4 Reefs at . . . $2.90

This lot includes odd sizes in Children's Reefs. In Shepherd plaids, mat mixtures, blue serges and red cloth; of some sizes there is a better assortment than in others, but there is a fair assortment in the entire lot; sizes 2 to 10 years; $2.90.

Children's $5 and $6 Reefs at . . . $3.85

AUSTRIA LIKELY TO LET POWERS DEAL WITH MONTENEGRO

Probability Is That No Forceful Effort Will Be Made to Have Scutari Evacuated.

By Associated Press.
LONDON, May 2.—No precipitate coercive action against Montenegro by Austria-Hungary is likely, according to information reaching diplomatic circles in London today. The powers, it is believed, will be allowed further opportunity of bringing pressure to bear at Cetinje, the Montenegrin capital.

Although the Council of the joint cabinet of Austria-Hungary in Vienna today will discuss the details of the financial and military operations which may ultimately be necessary to force the evacuation of Scutari by the Montenegrin troops, the Cabinet will, it is believed here, postpone any overt action.

By the time the Ambassadors in London come together again on Monday they expect to have evolved a plan for the compensation of King Nicholas for the loss of Scutari, and it is thought probable that the real compensation offered will be thinly disguised under the description of a rectification of frontiers.

ESSAID PASHA TAKES RULE OF ALBANIA
ATHENS, Greece, May 2.—A letter received here from Corfu states that Essaïd Pasha, who was the Turkish commander-in-chief during the prolonged siege of Scutari by the Montenegrins, has formed a government at Tirana, where he has proclaimed the autonomy of Albania under the suzerainty of Turkey and hoisted the Turkish instead of the Albanian flag.

Essaïd Pasha also has written a letter stating that the Albanian Government recognizes the authority of the orthodox church, to which it will offer its protection. This letter further states that the Albanian Government is in no way hostile to Greece and that it recognizes the northern frontier of Epirus in accordance with the demands of the Greek Government.

Tirana is in a district full of reminiscences of ancient Albanian Princes. It is about 54 miles south of Scutari and within 12 miles of Crotia, where the famous Albanian Prince Scanderbeg resisted for many years in the early fifteenth century the flowing tide of the Ottoman invasion in Europe.

W. B. JONES SECRETARY FOR THE FREEHOLDERS

Board Decides to Save $2000 in Rent by Meeting in Courts Building.

The Board of Freeholders selected permanent headquarters and elected a secretary at Thursday's meeting in the office of Mayor Kiel. All the meetings of the board hereafter will be in room 328 at the Municipal Courts. By holding the meetings in the Courts Building $2000 in rent will be saved.

Wilbur B. Jones, a young lawyer, was selected secretary out of a list of 24 candidates. He is a native of St. Louis, and was graduated from the Phillips, Andover and Amherst colleges. He is a Republican and lives at 535 Clara avenue.

The board, at a former meeting, decided to ask an appropriation of $25,000. On further consideration the board decided to withdraw action on the appropriation until an opinion could be obtained from the City Counselor as to how the printing should be done.

POLICE BOARD MEETS
WITHOUT A SECRETARY

William E. Erp Leaves Key in Desk and Quits and Successor, Sidney Johnson Is Not on Hand.

When the Board of Police Commissioners met Friday it was without a secretary. William E. Erp, who had been secretary for two years, mailed a statement of his accounts to President McPhee Thursday afternoon, put the key to his desk in the lock, and left the office.

Two weeks ago the board asked Erp to resign. The secretaryship had been promised to Sidney Johnson, former private secretary to David R. Francis. Erp is said to have remained in the office until May 15, to instruct his successor, but when no successor appeared Thursday, he decided to quit.

The present Board of Police Commissioners will all be out of existence June 22, under the provisions of the new home-rule law. The tenure of the secretary to be appointed to succeed Erp will be uncertain on account of this condition.

CLAIMS BOY AS HER SON

OPELOUSAS, La., May 2.—After a second examination of the child taken from a tinker at Columbia, Miss., recently, Julia Anderson of North Carolina said today she believed the child was her son. Yesterday she could not identify the boy as her own.

The Anderson woman's changing doubt and belief was regarded as paralleling that of Mrs. C. P. Dunbar of Opelousas, who, with her husband, claimed the boy as their son Robert, kidnapped last August.

WOMAN SLASHED WITH RAZOR, RUNS FROM HELP, DIES

Walks Around Half Hour and When Exhausted Writes, "a Dago Cut Me."

Nellie White, 41 years old, walked the streets half an hour, ran from two persons who would have assisted her and wrote a note telling how she was wounded, after her windpipe had been slit with a razor. She died at 1:20 a.m. Friday at the city hospital.

At 8:30 Thursday night she entered a saloon at 420 Biddle street, in which Fred Sexton of 4530 Kennedy avenue was tending bar. She held her hand to her throat and chokingly attempted to speak. She could not, but motioned to a bottle of whisky and then to her throat. Sexton saw she was wounded and poured out a drink, which she swallowed.

As he started from behind the bar to support her, she ran into the street. He followed a short distance, but could not overtake her.

News From Sergeant.
A short time later Sgt. Andreveno, who was standing at Seventh and Biddle streets, saw the woman approaching him. Her hand was pressed against her throat. But seeing the policeman, she turned and ran.

Ten minutes afterward a policeman found a woman lying on the sidewalk at Sixth and Wash streets. It was Nellie White. Discovering her wound, he telephoned for an ambulance. By motions she informed the patrolman she wished paper and pencil. Then she laboriously wrote:

"A damned dago cut me down at Sixth and Biddle."

Fannie Harris of 420 Biddle street told the police that earlier in the evening she saw the woman and a man, who appeared about 21 years old, talking in the hallway next to her house. In the hallway policemen found a razor, from the blade of which a big nick had been broken and on which was scratched the name "Orlando."

At the city hospital physicians found scars on her neck which they thought might have been produced by acid burns, but which were more recent. The roof of her mouth was seared with what they believed was a fresh acid burn. The razor wound, was deep, running almost from ear to ear. She became unconscious soon after arriving at the hospital.

Rumored She Had Rich Sister.
Nellie White, although the police said she had no regular place of abode, was a familiar figure in the neighborhood in which she was killed. It was rumored among the neighbors that she had a wealthy sister living in the West End, from whom she was estranged.

A year ago Father Timothy Dempsey interested himself in her and placed her in his working women's home. There she remained nine months and worked steadily. But three months ago she returned to her old homeless life, and repudiated all the efforts of the priest to win her back to the institution.

A woman appeared at Sixth and Biddle streets Friday. She was dressed neatly in black and said she was Nellie White's sister and that her name was Mrs. William J. Roy. With her was a man who said he was Dennis Sullivan, Nellie White's brother. Neither would reveal their place of residence. Both said they were aiding the police in searching for clews.

Father Dempsey Blames Police.

Father Dempsey told a Post-Dispatch reporter that he spent all Thursday morning searching for Mrs. White, but was unable to find her. He had known her 15 years, he said.

"I ascribe her fallings and her death to the temptations the police permit to flourish," he said. "There is a saloon in North St. Louis in which she was often seen. I have rarely passed it without seeing men and women drinking whisky from bottles together, or finding someone in such condition that I had to take him or her home. I have complained seven times about this saloon to Capt. Schopps. On the seventh complaint he sent a sergeant to investigate. He came to me with the excuse that the saloon 'wasn't half as bad as Tom Egan's' and that was the end of the investigation."

WOMEN LEAD STRIKE RIOT

Wives of Ironworkers, With Help of Men, Overpower Police.

BURLINGTON, N. J., May 2.—Women again took a prominent part today in the most serious riot that has yet occurred during the strike of the workers of the several iron mills in this city.

With the help of men, the women who for the most part are wives of foreign-speaking laborers, overpowered the police and deputy sheriffs and rescued a patrol wagon load of prisoners.

The police and deputies used their clubs on the men, but no one was seriously injured.

SHOOTS SELF TO DEATH

Fred Grant Said to Have Been Drinking Heavily.

Fred M. Grant, 30 years old, ended his life with a pistol at 10:30 p.m. Thursday at the rooming house of Mrs. Christina Wilson, 1555 Locust street. He had lived there three years and was a clerk for the Terminal Railroad Association. He had been drinking heavily, acquaintances told the police.

Grant was a brother-in-law of C. J. Blasney of Clayton, the police say. His father is a dentist in Danville, Ky.

U. S. INTEREST LOSS IN 16 YEARS, $30,000,000

Secretary McAdoo Who Orders 2 Per Cent Charge Computes Sum Government Should Have Had.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo asserts the United States Government has lost more than $30,000,000 in the last 16 years because the national bank depositaries had not been required to pay interest on Government funds they held. He has ordered that in future they pay 2 per cent.

"No interest was paid by the banks on the Government funds," he said, "until the passage of the Aldrich-Vreeland act in 1908. This provided for the collection of interest only on certain special and inactive accounts, and the total interest thus collected up to Jan. 1 last amounted only to $713,406."

"If the national banks had paid interest on their Government deposits during Cleveland's administration from 1893 to 1896 the aggregate would have been only $1,229,318, as the Government deposits during that period were small."

RUNAWAY HORSE RUNS INTO CAR; BOYS HURT

Frank Pepmiller, 15, Suffers Fractured Skull in Accident at Grand and Delmar.

Two youths were injured Thursday afternoon when a horse they were driving ran away and collided with a Grand car at Delmar and Grand avenues.

Frank Pepmiller, 15 years old, of 5854 Florissant avenue, was probably fatally hurt, and was taken to the city hospital.

His skull was fractured and his back injured. Edward Friel, 20, of 3240 North Twentieth street, refused to remain in the city hospital and was taken home. His right shoulder blade was broken.

The young men were riding in a delivery wagon of the Frielings Hardware Co. The horse became frightened at a piece of paper. The boys were thrown out and the wagon was wrecked.

TARIFF SCARE AIDS WEIL TO PURCHASE GOODS AT BARGAIN

Panicky conditions in the clothing market, due to the probable reduction of tariff on wool and other fabrics, was taken advantage of by Max Weil of Weil Clothing Co. in a recent issue of the Star.

He obtained wonderful bargains and fine goods in spring clothing he has never obtained. He announced Thursday he would start a sale which would provide unusual clothing values for St. Louis.

A strike of garment workers caused clothing manufacturers to dispose of their goods quickly in order to realize cash.

provides to the bridge, and if we carried out that policy everyone would be satisfied. To build three approaches would cost $2,000,000 or $10,000,000, and we know we can't do that. The city has spent $60,000 on special bond elections. If we could devise some method for completing at once the wagon approaches to the bridge, I would favor it."

Approaches to Cost $600,000. Chairman Fletcher called on City Comptroller Player for an estimate as to the probable increase in taxes if the wagon approaches were constructed out of the city's general revenue fund. Player replied that on an estimated cost of $600,000 for the wagon approaches the tax rate for municipal purposes would be raised 10 cents on the hundred dollars valuation and this would bring the total rate up to $2.25. On a bond issue for this amount the tax rate would have to be increased only 1 per cent. Player said.

Comptroller Player then warned the committee that it was suggesting a dangerous course in deviating from an increase of the tax rate to complete the wagon approaches to the bridge.

"That very act," he said, "will endanger the success of the bridge bond issue to be submitted later. The people elected a new administration on a platform promising speedy completion of the bridge. Until a test is made as to whether the people have confidence in the administration's ability to carry out that pledge, no drastic policy should be pursued."

"It would be unheard of to raise taxes for this purpose. No other municipality ever has done it and I don't think we ought to set the example. In point of time nothing would be saved by raising taxes, as the money would not be available before October or November."

Wants Reber Approach Extended. Delegate Scully argued for an extension of the Reber approach, saying: "Let it run out half a mile or three-quarters of a mile and that will take it clear away from the Terminal's tracks. Show the people we are doing something. Let's pass an ordinance right away."

"Get into 'virgin territory' with the approach," as Mr. Gerhart says, and everybody will be satisfied."

Councilman Rorer said he had voted for the Southern Traction franchise and would do so again. It was the best franchise ever passed by the Municipal Assembly, he said. He didn't believe the Assembly ought to attempt to repeal it, without having a legal right so to do. As for the Reber approach, he always had favored it and could continue to favor it unless some other approach was designated by the present President of the Board of Public Improvements.

For Outright Repeal of Loop. Delegate Ebrecht declared for an outright repeal of the Loop franchise.

"We run against these same stumbling blocks before, and we are going to meet the same obstacles with the bridge bonds unless we get rid of that franchise," said Ebrecht. "It is no use deceiving ourselves. We have been dilly-dallying, 'stalling' around on this bridge problem until the people are beginning to think we are making a toy of it. We are in an absolute haze as to what should be done, but just repeal the Southern Traction franchise and see how rapidly things will clear up. We can't pass the bond issue unless we repeat the traction company's franchise."

"You might issue realm of literature, like they did under Kreisemann's administration when they wanted to pass a bond issue but it won't do any good for the bonds if the Southern Traction franchise stands."

"They say lawyers say we can't repeal it. Oh well how many times do lawyers ever agree?"

Delegate Gallagher wished to know why Ebrecht wanted the Southern Traction franchise repealed.

"Go out among the people and find out," snapped Ebrecht.

Gallagher spoke in favor of the Alton and Mississippi or southeast approach to the bridge. The right of way along that route, he said, could be procured free of cost.

Mayor Kiel then suggested that the question of an approach and the repeal of the Southern Traction franchise might be put to a vote at the same time the bridge bonds are submitted.

"But the initiative and referendum was passed after the Southern Traction franchise was granted, and you can't put it to a referendum vote," said Delegate McCarthy. City Counselor Baird, who was coaching the Mayor on this point, said that McCarthy probably was right, but the point raised was one to which he had given no attention.

To invoke the initiative and referendum on the Southern Traction loop franchise, at a special election would require petition signed by 25 per cent of the vote cast at the mayoralty election April 2. As more than 20,000 votes were cast, more than 50,000 signatures would be required to submit the franchise, if it could be done at all. If the franchise was submitted, a majority vote only would be necessary to repeal it.

Councilman Randall said he disliked to disagree with the Mayor, but the thought action was needed at the present time. The taxes should be so increased as to provide funds for the completion of the wagon approaches, Randall argued. He will advocate such an increase, he said, before the Council Ways and Means Committee.

Counselor to Give Opinion. The meeting closed with the adoption of a motion by Delegate McCarthy requesting the City Counselor to prepare an opinion as to whether the Southern Traction loop franchise can be legally repealed and the Reber east side approach to the bridge changed.

President Kinsey of the Board of Public Improvements announced that the determination of these legal questions was necessary before he could finish the bridge plans.

WALther Thought Power Exhausted. The meeting closed with the adoption of a motion by Delegate McCarthy requesting the City Counselor to prepare an opinion as to whether the Southern Traction loop franchise can be legally repealed and the Reber east side approach to the bridge changed.

President Kinsey of the Board of Public Improvements announced that the determination of these legal questions was necessary before he could finish the bridge plans.

Former Counselor Advised City Could Not Condemn Other Land for Approach.

Whether St. Louis, by condemning land in Illinois for the Reber approach to the free bridge, had exhausted the power of eminent domain conferred upon it by the National Government, was passed upon by former City Counselor Walther in an informal oral opinion to former Mayor Kreisemann and members of the last Municipal Assembly. Walther held that the city, having exercised its power of condemnation to acquire such land as was not acquired by gift or purchase, had exhausted its right under the Federal grant, and had no power to condemn land for any other approach.

City Counselor Baird, who was an associate in the office of the former City Counselor at the time the opinion was given, has been asked by the Mayor and members of the free bridge conference for a formal opinion on the subject. Walther, in arriving at his opinion, examined fully the law on the subject. His advice was held to be sound by the former administration, which decided that as the Reber approach had been officially chosen by the city engineers and officially accepted by the Municipal Assembly, if would be imposed on the city to abandon it and select another approach.

Right Determined By U. S. Court.

The right of the city to condemn the Reber approach was determined by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals sitting in Chicago. This decision was rendered by the Federal Government had the power to grant the right of eminent domain for Federal purposes it did not have the right to confer that power upon a municipal corporation.

The Court of Appeals fully sustained the right of the city to take Latnette's land for condemnation. Under the condemnation proceedings his land was acquired by the city, which now holds title to it. This was the only instance in which the city had to resort to condemnation proceedings to acquire land for the site of the approach.

The suggestion has been made that the Secretary of War might have jurisdiction over the approaches to the bridge, and that his consent would be necessary before the Reber approach could be abandoned for another. Walther told a Post-Dispatch reporter Friday that all that the Secretary of War had to do with the bridge was to approve the plan. He had no control over the approach.

Actress Tells Secret

A Well-Known Actress Tells How She Darkened Her Gray Hair and Promoted Its Growth With a Simple Homemade Mixture.

Mrs. Blanche Rose, a well-known actress, has darkened her hair with a simple preparation which she makes at home. In a recent interview at Chicago, Ill., she said the following statement: "Any lady or gentleman who has hair that is gray, should mix it soft and glossy with this simple recipe, which they can mix at home. Buy rum, a small box of Bards' Compound, and a few drops of oil of roses. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair, and when it is dry, it will take the required shade. This will make a gray-haired person look 20 years younger. I also find the mixture good for rashes, rashesitching and scalp humors and is excellent for dandruff and falling hair."

Leo J. Scherer, had been induced to refuse to sell his property to the city and to fight the condemnation suit.

HAVE YOU CATARRH?
Unless Properly Treated With Hyomei This Disease May Become Serious.

Catarrhal troubles are far more dangerous than they seem at first thought. If you have catarrh, usually indicated by swollen, stopped-up head, droppings in throat, and morning choking, there is an irritated state of the mucous membrane which affords an ideal lodgment and culture medium for disease germs, especially those of consumption.

Do not allow the dangerous germs which may be breathed into the throat and lungs to begin their work of destruction.

The easiest, simplest, quickest, surest and cheapest way to check catarrh is by the direct method, breathing Hyomei. This wonderful medicated air treatment does not drug and cleanse the stomach, but is breathed in through the Hyomei inhaler, directly following the destroying all disease germs that may have been inhaled, and healing and vitalizing the tissues of the throat, nose and lungs so as to render catarrh and all other germ infections no longer possible.

The unusual way in which Hyomei is sold by druggists is the best evidence of confidence in the treatment, and should dispel all doubts as to its curative properties. They are authorized to refund the purchase price to anyone whom Hyomei fails to benefit so you do not risk a cent in testing its healing virtues. A complete outfit costs but $1.00. A bottle of liquid if later needed, 50 cents.

TRAIN BANDIT AND MINE MAN IN DUEL THROUGH CURTAINS

Joplin Mine Owner and Robber Both Wounded in Holdup in Kansas City Limits.

By Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 2.—To rob Jesse M. Short, Joplin mine owner, was the principal object of the giant bandit who held up a Kansas City Southern passenger train inside of the limits of Kansas City early today and the "holding up" of several other passengers was merely incidental, according to a police theory. After a lively duel with Short through the curtains in the sleeping car, the robber jumped off the train, wounded, carrying $100 of Short's money and the mining man was left behind in his berth with three bullet holes in his body. Two bullets were recovered this morning. One, taken from below the left shoulder, blade buried the most serious wound, and physicians said Short probably would recover. Another bullet was recovered from above the left knee. The robber's third bullet grazed the mining man's head, inflicting a slight wound.

The fact that a man of unusual stature had been seen about a local hotel where short stopped leads to the belief that the bandit, who is considerably more than 6 feet tall, had shadowed Short, awaiting an opportunity to rob him.

Total of Loot Put at $100.

C. G. Gibson, conductor of the train, which continued on its way South, telegraphed from Grandview, Mo., that the loot obtained amounted to $100 in money and a $3 diamond. Of this Gibson said Short lost $100, W. J. Seager, Neck City, Mo., $65, and F. A. Seaman, Eureka Springs, Ark., $35 and the diamond.

The train was just pulling out of the depot here when a tall man ran out of the darkness of the yards and climbed up the steps of the observation car. He had a handkerchief over the lower part of his face and carried two pistols.

One Allen, a negro porter, who saw him board the train, rushed out and ordered him away. The robber covered him with his pistols and says: "I am going to put over a trick here. You sit down there and be quiet. I will need you to encourage morning shopping."

After the train had proceeded about three miles through the east bottoms, the robber ordered Allen to go ahead of him through the train. In the sitting room of the observation car were Seager and Seaman. After robbing them he entered the sleeper and came to the berth occupied by Short.

"Give me your money, quick," the robber demanded in a whisper, as he shook the sleeping man. He awakened sufficiently to realize the import of the command and his purse containing $100 was taken. As the robber turned Short seized an automatic pistol and fired through the curtain. The robber returned the fire and both exchanged their weapons, shooting blindly through the curtain, which was perforated by almost a dozen bullets. One bullet struck Short's forehead, another went through an arm and a third lodged in his knee.

Short fell back in his berth, and the robber fled toward the rear of the train. Passengers in the other cars, aroused by the shots, followed him. They saw him back out of the door of the observation car and drop from the train which was just being brought to a stop. He left stains in the aisle and on the car platform and the passengers said he appeared to be badly hurt. It was believed that two of the bullets fired by Short struck the bandit.

Detective Kithcart told today of the last sight of the robber as related to him by Brakeman Ball.

"Attracted to the rear of the train by the sound of shooting, Ball rushed out to the rear platform," said Kithcart. "He saw a dark figure half leaning hair hanging over the railing and clutching to it. Ball pointed a sawed off shotgun at him.

Short fell back in his berth, and the robber fled toward the rear of the train. Passengers in the other cars, aroused by the shots, followed him. They saw him back out of the door of the observation car and drop from the train which was just being brought to a stop. He left stains in the aisle and on the car platform and the passengers said he appeared to be badly hurt. It was believed that two of the bullets fired by Short struck the bandit.

"Give me your money, quick," the robber demanded in a whisper. "For God's sake don't shoot me. I'm full of bullets now," the man groaned. Uncertain whether the man was the robber or a wounded passenger, Ball lowered his gun. In moment the robber had swung off the step and disappeared. The rear platform was covered with stains, Ball said.

"I had two pocketbooks concealed in my berth," Short said later at the hospital. "One containing $900 in currency and in the other just under $100 in dollars. It is my custom to divide my money in this manner when traveling with a large sum. I had always figured in case of a robbery that I would surrender the purse containing the smaller sum.

"When the robber shook me and demanded my money I was for an instant confused and only about half awake. During this interval I moved the pillow and shoved back the covers, exposing the purse containing the large amount. Realizing what I had done, I tried to hide the purse in the bed clothes again, but the robber was too quick for me.

"What was that?" he asked the porter.

"A pocketbook," was the answer.

"Reach in and get it," the robber commanded, and, despite my efforts to prevent it, the porter grabbed the purse and dashed it at the robber.

"As he turned away I got my pistol from under the pillow and began shooting at him. He returned the fire and disabled me.

"He failed, however, to get a diamond ring, valued at $2000, and seven $20 gold pieces which were in a pocket of my trousers."

Short is one of the wealthiest mine owners of Jasper County and he operates among the richest zinc and lead mines in that district.

Six years ago he was a miner working for wages. He quit his job one day and began prospecting for himself. Six months later he had an income from his own mines of more than $1000 a week.

A Men's Clothes Service of Greatest Efficiency

Unequaled Buying Power, Keen Clothes Perception & Concentration With Foremost Clothes Specialists Make Famous & Barr Co.'s Lines Pre-eminently the Best

The principles of CONCENTRATION & SPECIALIZATION are pursued in well-balanced proportion in the selection of our clothes for men. We concentrate the purchases of this vast merchandising organization & give our orders to the clothes specialists who, in the opinion of several of the keenest judges of men's clothing in the country, have the best style, tailoring, fit & materials in garments at a certain price. In this way we depend upon no one house for all our lines, but sift out the best from the many. The maker who supplies our leader at $25 may not have the value that another can give to sell at $20, & so the order goes to the best man.

Through this form of lively competition we bring out the best that is in each maker, & with the prestige of being the largest retail buyers of clothing in America, the order which we hold inspires the maker to highest & most painstaking efforts in the production of the best suits possible to make. With the rigid censorship exercised over every garment that comes into our stock, with the years of prestige as the foremost clothiers of St. Louis & with the unprecedented stocks now in readiness, there can be but one deduction for the thoughtful man & that is to choose his clothes at Famous & Barr Company. Here are reasons made more emphatic by the material price saving.

Men's $25 Spring Suits, $19

Extraordinary values in men's fashionable clothes, possible through the purchase of a Rochester, New York, maker's surplus. BISELL WARE'S FORMER WIFE SUES TO ATTACH ESTATE

BOGUS FIGHT TO TEST RELIABILITY OF EYE WITNESSES

NEW BILL PERMITS SHORT LEASES OF LAND BY JAPANESE

JUDGE W. A. TAYLOR TO WED PIANISTE, MISS E. L. HAMMER

Mrs. Eliza B. Ware, niece of former Gov. D. R. Francis, applied to the Circuit Court Friday for an attachment against her divorced husband, J. L. Bissell Ware, of 328 Washington boulevard, to prevent him from removing his horses and equipment of the Bissell estate from Missouri.

They are in her petition Mrs. Ware says that when he has learned that her husband is about to establish his home in California.

Then, in addition to asking that his share of his ancestral estate shall be attached, she asks that he be made to pay to her a sum sufficiently large to support their 7-year-old son for the next five years.

The amount necessary to support the boy, she says, will be $40 a month. If her husband elects to pay the money in advance she would accept $3500. She silent to ask a judgment for $1500. The amount which she says she has spent in the boy since she obtained a divorce March 10, 1910, the custody of the child was awarded to her.

On the Ware is a daughter of William Boyd of 4 Kingsbury place, vice-president of the Brown Bond & Stock office.

Ware's divorce petition Mrs. Ware also mentioned desertion. Ware did not contest the case. The trial lasted only six minutes. Since the divorce Mrs. Ware has been listed in Ferguson.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Secretary Bryan telegraphed today that he had reconsidered his purpose to start at once for Washington and would remain in Sacramento until the alien land legislation is concluded. Officials here indicated the Secretary feels he has not exhausted his resources and still hopes to influence the legislation in accordance with the administration's view.

By Associated Press.
SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 2.—Another anti-alien land bill, copied directly from the Webb act, now before the Senate, but with a clause added permitting aliens ineligible to citizenship to lease farming lands for a period of not exceeding three years, has been introduced in the Assembly.

Its author, Assemblyman Bloodgood (Progressive), said he had obtained a statement from Gov. Johnson that he had no objections to the new plan.

The bill, which was set aside by introducing the bill, said Bloodgood, was to get the Webb act before the Assembly so that no time would be lost when the Senate bill is passed and sent across to the lower house, which will then have both the original Webb draft and the new draft, with the exemption pertaining to leases from which to choose.

Gov. Johnson said: "I told Mr. Bloodgood I had no objections to any amendment that softens the bill, so long as it does not affect the big thing involved, namely, the prevention of ownership by those who are ineligible to citizenship."

Bryan to Stay Several Days.

Secretary of State Bryan gave notice to the Governor that he expected to remain in the California capital for several days.

It was the plan of the Progressive Republican majority to force the Webb bill to a vote yesterday, but at the request of the Democrats a postponement of one day was granted and the matter was set aside as a special order for 11 a. m. today.

In return for the delay, the administration leaders received a pledge from the minority that it would abide by the results as shown in the final roll call tomorrow, and not demand a reconsideration.

Senator Curtis, Democrat, introduced a resolution setting forth the fact that President Wilson is opposed to an alien land bill and including the following declaration:

"Be it resolved, That the people of the State of California do hereby defer to the wishes of the President of the United States and this Legislature will not at this session pass the bills herein mentioned."

No apprehension was aroused by the warning against the Webb bill telegraphed to Gov. Johnson by President Wilson. It is the belief both of Gov. Johnson and Attorney-General Webb that regardless of how the act was worded it probably would involve an appeal to the courts, as suggested by President Wilson.

"No method of avoiding an appeal to the courts by parties interested has occurred to us as if the Federal Government is advised of the existence of the bill to avoid this result without a complete and unwarranted surrender of the rights of the State. It is to be regretted that such method is not pointed out by the telegram," said Webb.

"If this act should be passed, I quite realize that hereafter some person might contend for greater rights than the act would seem, on its face, to give him, and in that case it would be quite proper for the courts to pass upon the question. I am at a loss, however, at this time to understand how the Federal Government could become in any way involved in or responsible for such a contention."

Secretary Bryan, who has been in his temporary office in the Capitol all day with the exception of the time spent on his inspection trip through a nearby Japanese colony, has declined to discuss the question raised by the President.

The President's Telegram.

The following telegrams are the latest to pass between President Wilson and Gov. Johnson. The President wired:

"I take the liberty of calling your attention to the Webb bill which would involve a complete appeal to the courts on question of treaty rights, and bring in what might be long and delicate litigation."

Gov. Johnson immediately replied:

"I thank you very much for your suggestion. The fault may be due to the fact that we have endeavored to preserve affirmatively upon the face of our bill the existing treaty. I have referred the matter at once to our Attorney-General and I would be extremely grateful for any suggestion that would avoid the objection you mention."

Officials here indicated the Secretary feels he has not exhausted his resources and still hopes to influence the legislation in accordance with the administration's view.

The affair grew into a free-for-all fight. The janitor, who had drawn a revolver, was overpowered and disarmed. As a big student grasped the pistol a shot was fired. Many students fled in flight.

All the students swore they heard the smoke from the revolver.

Then Prof. Dockery told them that it was an experiment, a fight that had been planned carefully, and that the shot of the revolver was from the outside of the building by a student posted there.

The purpose of the experiment was to show the unreliability of information even when furnished by eyewitnesses.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be practically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

April 10, 1907. JOSEPH PULITZER.

NO "PIG IN A POKE."

We do not reproach Mayor Kiel for his confession of ignorance on the legal and practical questions touching the eastern bridge approach and the Southern Traction Co. We do not reproach him for adopting a platform on these problems, of the soundness of which he was ignorant, nor do we reproach him for contemplating a violation of his platform pledges.

While no pledge not in accord with a candidate's intelligent judgment and convictions should be proclaimed for political purposes, no unwise platform pledge should bind an elected official.

We assure Mayor Kiel, however, that having been elected Mayor he should straightforwardly inform himself on all the legal and practical questions concerning the bridge and the Southern Traction Co. Having informed himself he should formulate definite plans of action and urge the Municipal Assembly to pass whatever ordinances may be called for to carry out the accepted plans.

The Mayor is right in saying that the Southern Traction franchise no longer affects the bridge. There is no franchise on the bridge. If the Mayor finds that the loop franchise should not be repealed, but should be amended to a shorter period and that a purchase clause should be inserted, he should say so and give his reasons. We believe he would be justified in opposing repeal. It is too good a franchise to be thrown away. It involves both the city's good faith and the public interest.

If the Mayor finds that the amended Reber approach is the best approach that can be selected, as we believe he will, he should give his reasons. The reasons for retaining the approach which has been planned, provided for and approved by competent engineers are many and weighty.

The chief necessity is a definite plan of action. The people are entitled to know what the administration intends to do with the bridge and the problems which have distracted them. To plunge them into another bond election in the dark and without a clear knowledge of the administration's intention would merely offer another opportunity for demagogues and representatives of special interests.

The cause of bridge completion according to wise plans must win by reason. Mayor Kiel's administration must stand or fall by reason. If he, with an open mind confessing ignorance and with the help of his associates, comes to a definite conclusion concerning what ought to be done his opinion with the reasons therefor would probably convince a majority of the voters.

In their present temper the people are not likely to accept "a pig in a poke."

As an international kleptomaniac Austria deserves the utmost kindness and consideration. The Powers should avoid all appearance of harshness.

THE NULLIFYING COURTS.

But if the new insurance law of Missouri would really expose innocent men to prosecution and would be as unreasonable in its other effects as the insurance companies fear, would not the courts nullify it?—The Kansas City Star.

What the courts still engaged in the dastardly practice of nullifying the enactments of the people, in spite of the Progressive press' hopeful efforts?

RIVALRY BETWEEN THE REED-SEPH AND D. R. FRANCA BANQUETS TO JEFFERSON DAY AND PEACE CONGRESS VISITORS RESULTED IN A SPIRITED COMPETITION FOR GUESTS. IN SOME INSTANCES GUESTS AFTER ARRIVING AT ONE BANQUET ARE SAID TO HAVE BEEN KIDNAPPED MOST ENTERPRISINGLY AND TAKEN TO THE OTHER. BUT TO GIVE VISITORS A REAL EXHIBIT ON ST. LOUIS' WARM-HEARTED HOSPITALITY AND ST. LOUIS' EMULATIVE HOSTS RECALLING THE RIVAL CLASS FEEDS OF COLLEGE DAYS, THERE OUGHT ALSO TO HAVE BEEN COMPETITIVE BANQUETS BY THE DR. SIMON AND SAUNDERS Factions OF THE LOCAL DEMOCRACY, AND THE KIEL AND KREISMANN WINGS OF THE G. O. P.

The underwriters seem to be showing the excess of enthusiastic prejudice over judgment of the old-fashioned volunteer fire companies at critical times.

MR. M'KELVEY'S GOOD YEAR.

The annual report of Building Inspector J. N. McKelvey shows that 200 buildings were condemned as unsafe during the year and 600 more reported as needing to be strengthened. His crusade for enforcing the fire code resulting in 182 additional fire escapes being provided. Most important of all, the School Board, after years of resistance, was forced to protect endangered children in firetrap school houses.

In this face, this is a record of a profitable year. McKelvey's activity is noted with satisfaction.

Louis is a better place to live in than it was a year ago, but it can be made still better by continued vigilance on Mr. McKelvey's part. Fewer lives will be imperiled by ruined buildings and buildings in which safety against fire are ignored.

No sarcastic remarks are heard from Westfield, N. Y., or Lawton, Mich., about grape juice at State Department dinners.

The Breakers of the Truce.

By Ripley D. Saunders.

THE world of men had been at peace for many and many a year. It had forgot the evil days of conquest, blood and fear. God had made Life majestic. From His highest Law's best use—When suddenly, one savage brood, War-justing, broke the Truce!

Grim were their cruel faces, Strong were their ruthless hands, They laughed and shook their weapons At all the Peace-leagued lands. The ancient creed of Strife was theirs, Invoked from out the night, And the dread specter-shape made black The sweet sky with its blight.

Then came the great Peace-miracle In answer to War's cry— A mighty host of millions, Firm-phalanxes made reply. From all the lands Peace-benisoned Their myriads sprang in view Until the Breakers of the Truce Seemed but a helpless few!

And women at their panic laughed And children sang with glee As the great Law made plain to them That War was not to be. For the weapons of the Truce-breakers Were wrested from their hands, And their armies stood defenseless Before the Peace-leagued lands!

And they were shamed for lust of blood, Until their heads bent low, And they were made to know the Law That all the Peace-lands know— The Law that sets a curse on War And damns the sword's grim use Save when the Peace-lands punish The Breakers of the Truce!

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Support the Business Men's League.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Every one should be much interested in the success of the attempt that is being made by President Shapleigh and his associates to increase the membership and further the work of the Business Men's League. You must frequently have realized how great would be the benefit to St. Louis if all of the men of influence could be persuaded to act together for the common good. That is just what the Business Men's League is attempting to do. It is planning to enlarge its membership so as to make it fully representative of the city and so as to enable it to take vigorous and logical action on the many important problems that will come up to be solved in the near future. As a first step in the right direction the League has reduced its annual dues from $100 to $60. It needs as members men of active influence and sound judgment.

Every merchant, manufacturer and property owner; every professional man—lawyer, clergyman, physician and writer—is directly concerned in this movement.

St. Louis should have the co-operation and support of its business men and professional men.

I urge you to give serious thought to this subject and I hope that you will give to the Business Men's League every possible assistance. We need your thoughts and your time and we need your financial support.

ROLLA WELLS.

Oppose South Side of Forest Park.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I am one of the many taxpayers on the south side of Forest Park, protest against any more car tracks being laid in the park. What we want is for the city to build a bridge in place of the one that was constructed during World's Fair time and has since tilted down and made a driveway and concrete walk from Tamm Avenue to the Art Museum, and then going from the Market car line will be a pleasure and will be enjoyed by thousands of visitors. This entrance to the park has been closed for several years now, while thousands of dollars has been spent on the north side of the park where it was not really needed. I think it would be a good idea to have our Mayor, City Council and Board of Park Commissioners make a trial inspection on the south side of the park and I am sure that they will vote unanimously to do something in the way I have suggested. We have had premises from city officials now for several years to make some improvements on the south side, but that was the end of it.

As I was one of the many to support the present administration, I hope to see something done for our side of the park. It will be for the good of the people and will be the means of building up that part of the city.

ONE OF THE SOUTHSIDERS.

Neglect of Home Talent and Products.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

What is the matter with St. Louis? Nothing but St. Louisans themselves, as they see everything as far as St. Louis outside of St. Louis. Think of it: the three largest banking houses have presidents from smaller cities. The men are all right, but think of the reflection on St. Louis that we haven't men in our own city to fill such important positions. No wonder other cities and towns make fun of St. Louis, for it would never have happened in Kansas City or Chicago or any other place. It is the same in everything. St. Louisans alone are to blame, particularly our wealthy people, for they never cease to "kick" here and there away from us, it is possible to buy away from our city. I wonder why our merchants do not bring such things here. Why should they, to be left on their hands while our people buy other places? Think what chance it would make if every one—man, woman and child—would begin to think and talk everywhere they go of the advantages, beauty and health of our city.

A LOVER OF ST. LOUIS.

The Consumer Wants Fresh Eggs.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

H. C. Pierce, U. S. Department of Agriculture, expert on cold storage, is in favor of the cold storage of eggs. Please tell us why? The people know what they are kicking about on this egg question, and if Mr. Pierce could see some of the cold storage product unloaded on the average citizen, he who himself can only howl, he perhaps would act for humanity's sake. Our stomach rebels against eggs which are so nearly rotten the yolk falls apart when broken into a frying pan and almost scramble themselves, when what we paid for was fresh eggs, able to be brought to the table on its own merit.

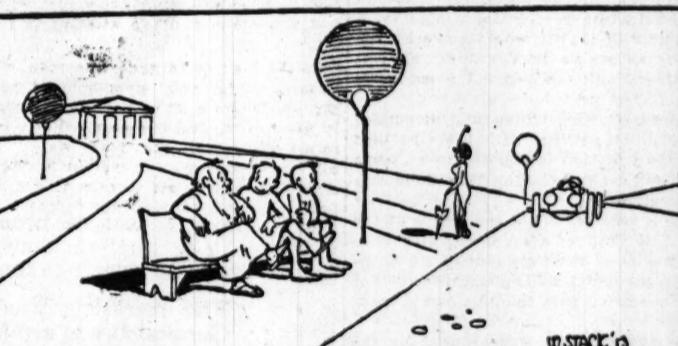

Living in East St. Louis, I have eaten some of your St. Louis cold storage product and some I have not, they being so nearly rotten that they were returned to the grocer. Does Mr. Pierce cater to the cold storage for his "eats"? We may say, and would that he could see this and also the "fresh" (?) eggs we buy, then perhaps one "great" man would change his mind.

JUST A MINUTE

Written for the Post-Dispatch by Clark McAdams.

SENATOR STEPHEN A. DOUGLASS.

From the New York Sun.

In declining with regret an invitation to address the General Assembly of Illinois on the occasion of the Douglas centenary, Henry Watterson wrote as follows to the chairman of the joint committee:

"From my boyhood to his death I knew Judge Douglas well. The last two years of his life—and especially the last few months—I was with him every day. He was as lovable as he was great. Lincoln was his true friend to the Union, and, had his life been spared, there is reason to believe he would have been Lincoln's second self during the dark days of the sectional war."

"When he returned to Washington after the famous Lincoln-Douglas debate of 1858 I heard him ask about the strange, new being who had so suddenly risen above the national horizon."

"'Mr. Lincoln,' he replied, 'is the very ablest debater I have ever met here or anywhere else.'

"'Generous to a fault, captivating before every audience and delightful in all private companies—Mr. Blaine himself not more so—he was bound to the dying body of institutional slavery which he abhorred, and, dizzled by the Prudential as were Clay, Webster and Calhoun.'

"This brief passage of swift and sure characterization makes us wish that the Col. Watterson could have found time to prepare the address desired by the Legislature of the State of Abraham Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas.

NATIONS AND THEIR FEET.

From the London Family Doctor.

National characteristics are apparently impressed upon every part of the body; even the feet are found to vary with the nationality. The French foot is narrow and long. The Spanish foot is small and elegantly curved, thanks to its Moorish blood, corresponding to the Castilian's pride of being "high in the instep." The Arab's foot is proverbial for its high arch. The Korean says that a stream of water can run under the Arab's foot without touching it.

The foot of the Scotch is high and thick. The foot of the Scotch is square. The English short and flat. When Athens was in her zenith the Grecian foot was the most perfectly formed and exactly proportioned of any of the human species. Swedes, Norwegians and Germans have the largest feet. Americans have the smallest.

Uganda's Golf Links.

From the Westminster Gazette.

The interesting fact that the young King of Uganda has taken to golf is revealed by Mr. E. H. Fison: "I saw him the other day," writes Mr. Fison, "make two of the best drives at golf that I have seen for many a long day."

King David is also the captain of a football club. He will be 18 years old this year.

Jab at Bailey.

From the Milwaukee Journal.

Ex-Actor Bailey is to mix up in a $100,000 suit in St. Louis. Mr. Bailey's favorite suit of associates among the common people seems to be those who spell their poverty in seven figures.

Port Said Unraveled.

From the Boston Herald.

No saloons next year in the Panama Zone. The Suez Canal need not fear that Port Said will cease to be the wickedest spot on earth.

The Post-Dispatch Daily Short Story

A Man's Man.

By Eleanor Ferris.

"A WINTERFUL of this air," said Brandon Ives, as he greeted them at the station. "No wonder you look like that. He was shaking hands with the doctor, but looking at Margaret, who only smiled and said demurely:

"We try to please."

"Jump up behind Brandon," urged his horse. "I'm due across the street. They will meet me home from there, Peggy. Drop Brandon at my house when you're through with him."

As Margaret drew rein, before his patient's gate, Midnight reluctantly paused and the doctor alighted.

"That's right—Brand—get in front and help drive," he advised.

"Donald knows I'd never forgive anyone who touched the reins while I am driving," declared Margaret, as Midnight sped on.

"Not unless you beg for help will you ever get it from me," answered Brandon.

For a time he was comfortably silent, as his way was. He had just brought his mother back from the Riviera and seemed to welcome the tonic. Margaret all as it blew to them over the Riviera.

On the straight stretch of road Margaret let Midnight out to tire him before attempting to stop at the village post-office. She humored the great black horse, her voice coaxing him as her hand felt his temper thrill along the reins. Generally she had him in perfect control, because he loved her, but today he seemed ready to follow his own will.

At the post-office Brandon Ives jumped down, obedient to Margaret's urging:

"Please get the mail quickly. Midnight hates to stand."

As Brandon started for the building a man repairing the roof moved a sheet of tin with a thunderous rattle. Midnight reared. Brandon, turning, sprang to the seat beside Margaret as the horse plunged forward and broke into a run.

"I can hold him!" cried Margaret. "Very well," was all that Brandon said.

"Steady, kid; steady" soothed Margaret.

Her left hand held hard, but the frightened run did not falter, and a steep hill was near. The cart rocked and Margaret momentarily expected the reins to be seized, for Brandon stood up, then turned and vaulted to the back seat. Was he panic stricken? Was he going to jump out? She glanced over her shoulder. He had his back to her. "Jump, if you're afraid," she said between her teeth.

"I'd be afraid to jump," retorted Brandon with a short laugh, as the horse dashed over the crest and down the hill.

Margaret gathered wildly, while the cart would overturn, wondered whether she could be killed or ask help of the porter behind her; wondered vaguely at a dull, grinding sound, as of a brake on the back wheel. Her useless arm was all pain, her left almost numb.

Then the pace lessened, the cart steadied and at last Margaret, panting but with Midnight controlled, made the turn into their own grounds. The old coachman met them at the house steps. "Oh, Miss Margaret did it kill your arm yesterday?" he cried when he saw her face.

"Drive," said Mr. Ives to Dr. Maxwell's house, said Margaret steadily, giving Michael the whip and reins.

"Thank you," said Brandon, and gravely bowed as the sobered Midnight started again down the drive.

Margaret slowly went into the house and up the stairs.

"He is a coward. He wanted to jump," she said to herself, "and I wouldn't tell him of my helplessness, lest it should be a bid for his chivalry."

At the word she gave a bitter little smile, then threw herself on her bed and stuffed a pillow under her aching arm.

Soon there was a knock, and a little maid came in.

"Oh, Miss, Mike's just told me. Your poor arm broke, and Mr. Ives' foot crushed, an' you alone here. Whatever does the doctor mean?"

"My arm is not broken, nor was Mr. Ives' hurt."

LUSTROUS HAIR SOFT—ABUNDANT

Unsightly, Matted, Scrappy Hair Made Soft and Lustrous at Once—Parisian Sage.

If your hair is anything short of perfect; if it is too dry—brittle—dull—thin, or has been falling out, you can immediately bring about a change by using Parisian Sage. The first application removes dandruff and increases the beauty of the hair.

A scientific study of the hair shows just what elements are needed to make it look the way it should and make it grow just like the hair on the plants in the garden. Parisian Sage supplies hair needs.

It is a tea-colored liquid delicately perfumed, not sticky or greasy, that comes in a fifty cent bottle at the druggists and toilet counters. The "Girl with the Auburn Hair" on the package.

GUIDEBOOK TO GALLANTRY

Ladies' Day at the Club.

Written for the Post-Dispatch.

By ALMA WOODWARD.

E sure to impress the significance of the day upon all your feminine invites. Talk of it for weeks before. Make it seem a reckless, dashing thing to look forward to. When an engagement presents itself always preface your acceptance with:

"Now, just let me see—isn't that our Ladies' day at the club?"

On the auspicious day purchase a large box of the most expensive confections, take several pieces out of the box and hide the rest somewhere in the reading room. It's going to make a tremendous hit when you bring them out. Because remember, when you say you are buying them EXPRESSLY for that day, they disbelieve and be perfectly sure that they're the risque leftovers from the last mysterious wild "smoker," when some real professionals entertained you!

Remember that you have to be cordial to everybody—even the least popular member's spinster sister, who keeps house for him and who entertains you with the fact that "it's the first time I've been out since fall, on account of my neuritis!"

Maintain a subtle atmosphere. Try to keep the ladies from discovering that a man's club is really just a series of rooms, with floors and ceilings and walls just like any other building. And if any one who's going to resign any way, apologizes for the furniture because the House Committee couldn't raise the two hundred necessary to put it in shape, choke him off with some pleasant remark about the weather.

To show herself perfectly at ease, she poured for him a cup of plain hot water with her left hand. Hoping that he'd notice, she added, she hurriedly added tea leaves.

"They're sometimes put in," he observed coolly.

Margaret ignored the remark. "Tell me," she commanded, turning from the table.

"What?"

"Everything."

"Really, may I—everything?"

"About your injury?"

"Oh, that's not everything—rather nothing. The hill was steep, and we'd no brake. In Switzerland I've seen them an old boot against the back wheel to help on the hills!"

"An empty boot?" she interrupted.

"It was nothing," he repeated.

"You could have stopped, hid by—why didn't you take the reins?"

"Because I was afraid!"

"Oh, you. Besides, it wouldn't have been fair. I knew you could stop him with half a chance. You did. I only kept the trap from his heels."

"And you knew about my arm all the time?"

"No. When the horse began to run, I saw you couldn't use it—I was ready to grab it if necessary—but—wouldn't have had much respect for you here, after, if I had."

"Thank you!" said Margaret softly. "And to think that I thought—"

"It doesn't matter, if you don't think it now."

"I came to my style," went on Margaret, looking hard at the fire; "and instead of helping the cross little lame dog over it, you demolished the stile. Why, I wonder?"

"Why?" he echoed. "Why, but because you are, and I must have been born loving you?"

He came to her swiftly, though she put out an imploring hand.

"Ah, Brandon, remember—"

"You arm?" he interrupted. "I do!"

Love and Courtesy

The Beggar Maid.

S the girl whose prospective husband belongs to a social environment different from her own destined to happiness or unhappiness?

The latter, I fear, in the vast majority of cases. The romance of King Cophetua and the beggar maid isn't apt to turn out as happily in real life as in legends. Now are you wondering why?

The answer is not far to seek. It does not lie in the fact that the rich man's son is necessarily "above" you, the working girl—only that he is probably so.

Speaking then, you brought up in one way, you in another, and one might as well try to combine chalk and cheese. It's at best a risky experiment to marry into a circle far removed from your own.

A Maimed Hand.

H. M. writes: "I am 20 years old and I love a young man who cares for me; but his left hand is partially crippled by an accident, and my friends advise me to give him up on that account. Do you think I should do so?"

I think if you really love him you won't seriously consider giving him up for any such reason.

Afraid of His Spelling.

W. J. writes: "A young man always calls on me when he comes to town; but he cannot be induced to write. He promises each time I see him that he will do so, but he never does. Should I write to him?"

No, you mustn't begin a correspondence. He probably doesn't like writing.

A Quarrel.

C. B. writes: "I am very much in love with a girl whom I have known for a long time but recently we had a misunderstanding. Now she never speaks when we meet, and I am very unhappy about it. What shall I do?"

Write her a note apologizing for your part in the misunderstanding.

James Johnson Says She Urged Wife to Throw Things

At him. James Johnson of 1554 North King's Highway, brawled with his wife, Mabel Johnson, filed in the Circuit Court Friday, alleges among other things that his wife's mother is possessed of certain characteristics that make mothers-in-law renowned in song and story. He also claims his wife threw an electric at him once and was about to follow up with a flat iron while her mother cried "Kill him." Then he fled from the house.

The Johnsons were married Aug. 26, 1908, and separated April 11 last, according to the petition. Johnson alleges his wife heaped indignities upon him by accusing him of being friendly with other women and making him account for every minute he was absent from home. He also alleges she had him taken to the Prosecuting Attorney's office on a charge of nonsupport, although he had given her all his money.

GETTYSBURG HAND BATTLE

Handshaking to Supplant Bullets at 50th Anniversary.
MIDDLETON, N. Y., May 2.—A plan to re-enact the battle of Gettysburg on its fiftieth anniversary in July, with handshaking taking place of bullets, was announced tonight by Henry M. Howell, who fought with the 124th New York regiment at Gettysburg.

According to Grand Army men here the idea of Howell, himself a G. A.

R. member, is meeting with the approval of many men who took part in the battle. Howell is endeavoring to arrange a reunion of the survivors, disprove the contending "armies" and re-enact the events of the battle and have them advance across the field and clasp hands.

Plural Voting Bill Advanced.
LONDON, May 2.—The House of Commons passed the second reading of the plural voting bill without division. A motion to reject it was defeated 314 to 227. The bill is to abolish plural voting at elections in the British Isles.

DROWNS HIMSELF TO ESCAPE FROM HOUSE CLEANING

Man Quits Beating Carpets, and Writes Farewell Note to Wife on Her Spring Habit.

By Associated Press
NUTLEY, N. J., May 2.—How cleaning is said to have driven William Brandol to end his life. He quit beating carpets in the yard of his home on Center street and later his body was found floating in the water at the bottom of a deep hole in a nearby stone quarry. A note addressed to Mrs. Brandol was found in a cleft in the rocks and the message is credited as the farewell of her husband.

"I can't beat carpets or clean house," it read, "and it ain't no use of your trying to make me. When you read this I hope you will give up your habit of cleaning house every time you hear a robin sing."

A friend who said he had seen Brandol writing the note and thought it some sort of a hoax, walked back to the house with Brandol, when he said he had forgotten his wife was going to have corned beef and cabbage for the noon meal, and he thought he would eat before he killed himself.

Brandol ate heartily and left the house. No more was seen of him until the discovery of his body.

FEDERAL LEAGUE'S OPENING ASSURED AT MEETING HERE

Otto Stifel, Henry Laumeier, Mike Kinney and Other St. Louisans to Underwrite New Organization.

By W. J. O'Connor.

THE Federal League, an organization which will operate independent of, but not antagonistic to organized baseball, has taken concrete form, and St. Louis owns a solid franchise. Otto Stifel, president of the Union Brewing Co.; Henry Laumeier, a real estate operator; E. A. Steininger, a contractor; Walter Fritsch and State Senator Michael Kinney own the local club.

John T. Powers of Chicago is president and sponsor of the league, which he says will "crawl before it walks." Powers believes that before the present season closes the six clubs in Louis, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Covington, Ky., Indianapolis and Cleveland—will have good Class A. The promoters' ambition is to build up to major league standard in the future.

St. Louis business men who are interested in the new league's chance of making money the first year. They regard it as a gamble, and have subscribed $12,000 cash to start the club, and will, they say, underwrite the venture to the extent of $35,000 for the first campaign.

Owners of franchises in Pittsburgh, Chicago, Indianapolis and Covington met at the Missouri Athletic Club Thursday evening, and it is said that after Otto Stifel received assurance that other magnates were prepared to shoulder a substantial loss, this season, he pledged his support to the local club and put up his money. The league now has substantial forfeits posted, to guarantee the completion of this year's schedule.

New League's Parks Are All Ready for Opening of the Season on May 3

PRESIDENT JOHN T. POWERS has this to say about the parks in the various cities: "In Covington we have a new, small but modern ball park, which is only 10 minutes' walk from Fountain Square, the heart of Cincinnati. You can ride to our park in four minutes. It takes 35 minutes to get to the Reds' lot."

"We will use the Pirates' old Exposition Park in Allegheny (Pittsburg) and the Cardinals' old Exposition Park in St. Louis."

The Chicago club has its home on the De Paul U. campus, which is situated only eight minutes by the elevated from the Chicago loop district. We are 12 minutes closer by car than the Cubs and almost 15 minutes closer to the heart of the city than the Sox. We have seating capacity of 7,000.

"In Indianapolis and Cleveland our clubs will be located in the amusement parks, which are both very accessible. The parks are large and well equipped. St. Louis will hold forth at St. Louis U. campus, a very beautiful site."

Cleveland Opens Saturday.

All the clubs have been recruited and are ready for play. Cy Young, the Grand Old Man of baseball, will manage the Cleveland club. Deacon Phillippe, the ex-Pirate, will command in Pittsburgh, while his old comrade, Sam Leever, will hold the reins in Covington. Bill Phillips is tactician for Indianapolis, while Bert Keeler, the diminutive humor once with Washington, is Chicago's boss. Of course Jack O'Connor, the popular catcher, will be in charge here.

The season will open Saturday, when the Cleveland club entertains Covington. St. Louis will have its opening next Tuesday, as will Pittsburgh. Indianapolis will be the attraction at Platetown.

St. Louis and Chicago are the only clubs that will conflict with major league teams. The local club will play most of its games in conflict with the Browns.

It is estimated that each club will have a running expense of $3,000 for the season. It has been agreed that 25 cents on each paid admission to every game in the league will be applied to a "sinking fund," which will be held in readiness to help out a "weak sister" if such should crop up.

JACK O'CONNOR HAS A SQUAD OF 17 PLAYERS
MANAGER JACK O'CONNOR of the local Federal League club has a squad of 17 players working up at Marion Park, and he says he'll be ready to give Chicago a battle on opening day, next Tuesday. O'Connor's squad includes:

Pettitt, catcher, once with Browns, now playing independent ball in St. Paul; Goldstein, catcher, with Typos of Missouri-Illinois League; Sheahan, first base, local semi-pro.

Barton, second base, manager of Cincinnati U. S. team last year.

Proud third base, Richmond (Va.) club.

Short, manager of Peoria (Three-I League) club last year.

Outfielders—Zellers, a local semi-pro; Hooker of the Virginia League; Kempen of Kansas City League, and Sullivan, a former National League pitcher.

Pitchers—Moxey Manuel, formerly of Chicago White Sox; Bridges, a local semi-pro, and Frey, Fisher and Foster, all of this city.

SULLIVAN CLOSES CLUB WITH CARD OF 3 BOUTS

Two preliminary bouts will be the Art Ma- girl-Mary Rowan feature at the Future City Auto. The bout night has been arranged by Manager Tommy Sullivan.

In the opener Phil Goldstein will box on Jake Fieldman. They are carded to go eight rounds at 110 pounds. Lee Morrisey, who hails from Oklahoma, and believes he's a tip-top lightweight, will meet Earl Erhling of Milwaukee. This bout is scheduled for eight rounds at 125 pounds.

The main event will bring together Mastr and Rowan for the third time.

Each man owns a victory over the other.

The show will be the final of the season at Sullivan's club.

TWO MEN INJURED IN FIRST AUTO POLO GAME

Auto polo was played for the first time at Priester's Park Thursday night with the New York team defeating the Chicago machine by the score of 7 goals to 6. The contest was marred by accidents which slightly bruised two men in the first. Charles La Vole, mallet man of the New York team, was caught between the two machines and had his leg bruised. A few moments later the Chicago car overthrew and Claude Morton was badly shaken up. Another will be played Friday evening.

And without a record-breaking house no promoter could ever pay Luther $12,500 for engaging in a 10-rounds decisionless bout.

Y. M. C. A. PLANS BASEBALL LEAGUE.

The final meeting of the Railroad Y. M. C. A. baseball league before the opening of the season will be held tonight at the R. Y. M. C. A. Building on Eugenie street, near the Union Station.

There will be eight clubs, each club team, and the games to be played on the municipal grounds in Forest Park, will be organized. The officers of the league are F. G. Stobie of the Katy, president; W. C. Allen of the Frisco, vice-president, and W. D. Hally of the Y. M. C. A. secretary and treasurer.

MORAN RECEIVES BEATING, BUT NO SHARE OF PURSE

Luther McCarty Given $4000, All the Receipts, for 10-Round Bout.

By Robert Edgren.

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Democrat.

ORGANIZED baseball is watching rather anxiously the attempts of the Federal League to line up its clubs for an opening. It is not keenly interested and not at all worried. Third leagues, outlaw leagues and other troubles of the sort have risen, in the past and the National agreement system has lived them down.

It will do so again, say the contented ones in authority. Only last year two leagues were born only to die almost before the wheels had begun to turn.

The United States League and the Columbian League. There is, say the heads of the game, no more reason to believe the Federal League will survive than its predecessors.

So Moran, who was naturally expecting to get at least the price of a general ticket out of his share in the show, walked home to save car fare.

Being a fighter isn't such a snap, unless you're lucky.

McCarthy had $4000 to put into the bank.

It will be a long time before another New York promoter offers to match McCarthy here.

McCarthy offers $10,000 to meet him and McCarty $10,000. Later Billy Gibson offered McCarthy $12,500 for his and alone to meet Gunboat Smith. McCarthy turned that down.

Possible he thought that later on he could make $10,000, but then he had to pay him more.

It's that's the case. McCarty has a chance to sell his goods for a price that he'll never get again. His showing against Moran has spoiled all chance of a record-breaking house if he meets Smith.

And there are many other advantages it enjoys at the outset, which did not exist in case of previous failures.

It takes very little actual cash to operate it.

And it does not expect to establish itself on big league lines for a year or two to come.

It is not starting a "war" with the major leagues, although it will not back away from trouble.

And there are many other advantages it enjoys at the outset, which did not exist in case of previous failures.

It takes Fighting Spirit.

IT HUS will be no great trick for the new league to get a toe hold on the baseball map. Whether it will remain there, however, is dependent entirely on the fighting qualities of its leaders, the field it intends to invade and the money

Rangle and Jarr escape to the poor man's club.

By Roy L. McCordell

"Well, it makes sore eyes to see you two felers!" said Mr. Slavinsky heartily, as Mr. Jarr and Mr. Rangle entered Gus' popular cafe on the corner. "What's the matter? Ain't you got no homes?"

"Look here, Slavinsky," said Gus, leaning over the bar, "if once I have told you never to insult my customers it is maybe a dozen times. If anybody insults my customers in my liquor store it will be me. You go to your glass-put-in shop and insult your own customers so much as you like, but all I say to you is: Don't do it in my place."

"I don't know what is the matter, anyhow," said Gus glumly. "Sometimes when I pay my license, and when I get the interest on my mortgage paid, and settle something on account with the wholesaler, and get my cigar man to extend me 60 days more, then I say to myself, 'Gus, you unforunate feller, you own standing in the Retail Liquor Dealers' Association. Could I do more to make them feel at home in your place than to hurry up and insult people before you do? What is it I should do? Get me an overcoat made mit a doormat and Elmer thinks he's the boss and not the bartender. There's a fellow for you, that Elmer!"

"I'm glad I ain't got no helper, any more," said Mr. Slavinsky condoling. "My little Izzy can go along with me and a hand, so smart that boy is, and to make out a bill! Yow! there's a little fellow what can figure in breakage and everything."

"And if a customer kicks at the dimensions on the bill, I say: 'Missus (for I got it to fight mit the wimmin generally) 'Missus, it's a little boy makes up my bill, and you ain't going to take that little boy's heart out of him by showing him his school teacher has learned him wrong in his lessons in sums! As for the glass being 30 by 20 when it really is only 18 by 28, it was 30 by 20 before it was cut, and the trimmings is no profit to me. With a butcher like Bepler that is another thing again, he sells the trimmings for 4 cents a pound maybe, but broken glass, that's nothing but a loss."

"Cut it out!" cried Gus. "What I got to say is, that everybody tries to run my business."

"Maybe we'll forget it and play a little penchue, vot?" suggested Mr. Slavinsky.

"No cards for me, please," said Mr. Jarr with a sigh.

"Yes, we've just been playing cards at home," said Mr. Rangle.

"My sympathy, you have," said Gus, extending his hand across the bar.

"Many a time I see it when my wife says to me, 'Why don't we play two-handed penchue like we used to when before we was married?' And—

"It can't be done," said Mr. Rangle in a hoarse voice.

"Sure it can't," said Gus. "But anything to keep peace in the family, even if you know it is to fight!"

"Cease! Cease!" said Mr. Jarr wearily. "I'm ashamed of you, Gus. Suppose your wife went around complaining about you?"

"Don't she?" asked Gus. "Ain't she always doing it?"

"And she has a right to," Mr. Rangle chimed in. "You should take off your hat every time you mention her name."

"But I don't wear any hat in here."

"A Queen among women, if ever there was one is Gus' wife," said Mr. Jarr fervently.

"Well, you bet my Lona is a fine looking woman," said Gus proudly. "Way, when she is all dressed up, she

HIS FAITH GREW WEAK.

D. R. ALBERT F. HUG tells this: "A man came to my office and asked me to make him a set of teeth. I noticed that he had worn false teeth before, and asked him what he had done with them. He said a faith healer had cured his sister of consumption, and had assured him that it was just as easy to make teeth grow as to cure consumption. All that he had to do was to grow his false teeth into the river and have faith that true ones would grow. My patient threw the false ones into the river and waited three years."

"I guess I waited long enough," he said. "Maybe this faith cured him, but work with some folks, but every time I eat I wish I had my teeth to show my meat. And false ones'll soon."

The "Painters." A old farmer who had never been to the city before and had never seen the fire department was standing on the corner one day when the fire engine came out. A policeman ran up to him and shouted:

"Look out for the engine!"

The old farmer jumped aside and gazed excitedly at the on-rushing engine, then got right back in the road again. Along came the hook and ladder wagon and ran into him, sending him sprawling to the pavement. The policeman ran and picked him up and said:

"Well, look here, I thought I told you to look out for the engine."

The farmer answered excitedly:

"Well, gosh darn it, Mr. Policeman, I did look out for the engine, but what in tarnation was them drunken painters in such an all-fired hurry for?"—National Monthly.

Not Unlikely.

"Well, my boy," said the visitor to Bobby, "I suppose some day you expect to step into your father's shoes?"

"Oh, I suppose so," said Bobby, gloomily. "I began wearin' out everythin' else he wears since mother learned how to cut 'em down for me."

Perpetual Motion.

"What a lively baby!" said Flaherty. "Have ye had his picture took yet, I dunno?"

"Not yet," said Fogerty, the proud father. "We tried to, but after an hour's lost labor the photograher rayferred us to a movin'-picture studio."

The Freshman.

"Failed in Latin; flunked in Math." They heard him softly hiss. "I'd like to find the guy who said that 'ignorance is bliss'!"
